City Hall Choice Thrown Wide Open as Alternate Propositions Are Made

Goold, Devendorf, Gates, De Sabla Sites
Vie With El Paseo Building for Committee Favor

The Jordan skyrocket exploded and a shower of stars fell, each a site for a proposed city hall, just as El Paseo building was about to be passed on to the people for decision in a $42,000 bond election.

Now before the city council, and their committee of representative citizens, barring real estate agents because of possible interest, are:

1—The Mary A. Goold block now occupied by Lynn Hodges' stables, priced $18,000;

2—The Devendorf lots behind the Library with one additional lot available, together, $10,500 including improvements.

3—The southern end of the block opposite the Plaza, owned by Dr. Amelia Gates and Mrs. Eva K. De Sabla, at $10,500 for east or west half, or $21,000 for the whole.

The Devendorf lots were first proposed by John B. Jordan, former mayor of Carmel, a week ago, and he appeared before the council on Tuesday afternoon with suggested plans for a California-type city hall drawn by Milt Latham, architect, who designed the fire house. Three lots on the northeast corner of Sixth and Lincoln street are available.

The Goold property was proposed in a letter from Mrs. Goold and has been frequently mentioned as a possible city hall site. It dominates the Plaza on the east at the northeast corner of Ocean avenue and Junipero streets.

Arthur T. Shand, real estate agent, came forth with a triple proposal involving the Dr. Amelia Gates lots on Sixth and Mission street for $10,500; the De Sabla lots on Sixth at Junipero, adjoining, for the same price; or the two parcels lumped for $21,000.

Mrs. Goold gave the city a 60-day option on the ten lots of Block 68, 130 feet by 200, for $18,000.

Jordan's letter specified options on the two Devendorf lots, with buildings, for $6000 and the third lot on Lincoln, owned by L. A. Parker of Pasadena and occupied by a building, for $4500.

In an expansion of his previous suggestion for building a city hall on this site, Jordan presented figures of $10,500 for the land suitably prepared as a city hall site, and $19,500 for a partially fireproof building, with fireproof jail cells, vault and some partition walls. For $3000 more, Jordan quoted Latham as specifying, the entire building could be of fireproof construction.

This proposal named a possible total cost of $33,000 for fireproof building of extreme dimensions of 55 by 75 feet on a site of 100 feet on Sixth avenue and 120 on Lincoln street.

In Shand's proposal, the three lots owned by Dr. Gates, now containing Ella's Southern Home Kitchen, are 120 feet on Mission street; the four De Sabla lots are 100 feet on Junipero to Weaver Kitchen's property line, and each fronts on Sixth for 100 feet. Shand suggested that the combined area opposite the plaza could be joined to the city park by closing Sixth street, 50 feet wide, between Mission and Junipero, and cutting a roadway behind the city hall through the back lots, thus making an "ideal" site for a city hall overlooking the park.

Presentation of so many alternate suggestions, in more concrete form than at earlier stages in the negotiations for El Paseo building, brought to an abrupt halt machinery set up to call a bond election in mid-March for purchase of the building at the corner of Dolores and Seventh.

El Paseo building, as offered by the Doulton trust through Byington Ford, agent, was for sale to the city at a price of $32,000, allowing $3,000 in the original price for alterations. Subsequent plans for remodeling, drawn up by C. J. Ryland, architect, brought the cost to around $42,000, the amount named for the bond election, now definitely postponed through tabling of an ordinance scheduled to have been given first reading on Tuesday.

Meanwhile it was learned on good authority that El Paseo building might not be available for purchase, although impediments said to stand in the way might not prove unsurmountable, inasmuch as a bonafide option was given the city by Ford, as authorized agent for the Doulton trust.

In explaining the council's action in delaying any city hall decision until all proposals now before the council or immediately coming up had been thoroughly investigated by the citizens' committee, Mayor Herbert Heron said in part:

"El Paseo building came up originally as an only proposal. There was no other proposal made at that time. Now, long after this matter was first discussed, other offers have been made, some of considerable interest, and public opinion on the subject has been awakened to the point where it appears advisable to reopen the matter and appoint a committee to

A committee of citizens was named late yesterday to work with the city council in study of the entire city hall possibilities, including El Paseo building, the three offers made at last Tuesday's council meeting, and any others that may turn up shortly.

The names of the committee chosen are as follows:

Frederick R. Bechdolt, Hugh Comstock, Mrs. Alfred P. Fraser, Miss Cordelia Gilman, L. E. Gottfried, Johan Hagemeyer, Herbert Heron, Samuel Hopkins, Miss Clara Kellogg, Robert G. Leidig, Ernest Morehouse, Miss M. DeNeale Morgan, Harold Nielsen, Clay Otto, Capt. Shelburn Robison, Bernard Rowntree, George J. Seideneck, Everett Smith, Mrs. Marian B. Todd, Miss Hazel Watrous, George M. Whitcomb and Col.

Players to Elect Directors Sunday

Directors of the Carmel Players this week called to an end the fall series which began Aug. 1 and scheduled a general meeting of all members for Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Green Room.

At this meeting a new board of directors will be elected and policies of the Carmel Players decided.

The series now ending is the longest single series the Players have had. The report of Treasurer E. A. H. Watson will be among those to be presented. The present series had not been as successful financially as had been hoped, but it ran through the duller fall and winter months.

The new board will make arrangements with Charles "Chick" McCarthy as director. It is understood he has asked for 25 per cent of the "take."

Plans for production in March of "Pursuit of Happiness," a Puritan-day "bundling" play, stand upon decision of the new board as does also the re-engaging of McCarthy.

Lee Crowe was to have had the lead in this play, as a young Hessian officer. Crowe played the part in road companies several years ago.

SUNSET TRUSTEES TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

The trustees of the Sunset school district, last Friday officially formed into a consolidated elementary and high school board by County School Superintendent James G. Force, will meet in their new role next Tuesday afternoon for their monthly meeting.

A large delegation of citizens interested in the choice of sites is expected to be present. A possible third site, mentioned at the last meeting, is still rumored in informed circles.

ON TREASURE ISLAND

Sailing the Court of the Seven Seas might be the title of this picture of beautiful and dramatic architecture at the 1939 California World's Fair. On pylons atop the exhibit palaces on either side of the court, 85 feet above the pathways where millions will tread, are the lively appearing figures on the ships' prows, to whose beauty is added that of graceful trees and shrubs.

Japanese Fishing Crew Saved In Coast Rescue

Two small Japanese felt very small and very helpless one morning last week-end until the purse seiner Geneva, manned by fellow Japanese from Monterey, rescued them from a broken-down fishing launch anchored off Bixby Landing, ten miles down the coast.

First noticed by Mrs. Frieda G. Sharpe about 6 o'clock last Saturday morning, when the men on the launch "San" blew their fog horn for help and tied a yellow oilskin to the mast as a distress signal, the men were not rescued until 2 in the afternoon. Heavy seas threatened at any moment to break the slender anchor line, and sweep the boat and men to death on the rocks.

Mrs. Sharpe said she first telephoned the Point Sur lighthouse in an effort to have the lighthouse get in contact by radio with a passing vessel. When told there was no radio there and no Coast Guard vessel nearer than San Francisco, Mrs. Sharpe called Monterey and reported the "San" in trouble.

Next stage in the rescue was the arrival in cars of Italian and Japanese gentlemen from Monterey. The Italians took one look at the disabled craft, remarked "It's not papa," and left. The Japanese, seeing the boat's rail was painted in ochre, returned to send down the Japanese seiner. The California Rose, an Italian-owned boat, had been ready to assist had the men been Italians.

Toward afternoon the Geneva arrived off Bixby, but found the water too rough to go inside and so a small skiff was sent in to the launch to take off the men. Eventually the launch also was saved.

Rescued from the 35-foot hook-and-line boat were G. Nishiguchi and G. Miyamoto—American Japanese are frequently unwilling to give their first names.

Mrs. Sharpe, who operates the lodge at Rainbow Headlands, near the big bridge over Bixby Creek, described the rescue as "a most beautiful piece of seamanship. We could see everything from the windows."

She also reported that one of the Japanese who assisted in the rescue visited her lodge and told her: "I was worried about those men. Last night I dreamed I could see them smashed on the rocks, the blood coming out of their necks. I knew if they had trouble they would come to the house down here. You see, they did come to the house."

The "San" was anchored almost directly out from Mrs. Sharpe's "house", so close to the shore that the men's shouts could be heard.

'Mortal Storm' Jew-Aryan Story

Mrs. Margaret Grant was the speaker at the book section of the Carmel Woman's Club on Wednesday morning when she reviewed Phyllis Bottome's "The Mortal Storm."

The scene of the book is laid in Munich and Bavaria at the time of Hitler's ascension to power. It concerns the family of a famous Jewish scientist and his Aryan wife. There are pure Aryan children by the mother's previous marriage and two half Jewish children by her union with the scientist.

Mrs. Grant vividly portrayed the situations that developed, the young half-Jewish daughter falling in love with a Bavarian peasant who had absorbed Communism, and her Aryan brothers' bitter reactions due to their being a part of the Nazi regime. The lover was finally shot by a group of Nazis while fleeing to Austria. In the group was the girl's brother and a great friend who one day hoped to marry her.

As the story develops the family goes through various vicissitudes. Growing Jewish persecution affects them; the father finally being interned in a concentration camp and the girl fleeing to Austria over the same route taken by her lover so disastrously.

Mrs. Grant pointed out that the whole story was presented in parable in one of the opening scenes of the book when the young girl rescues a hare from the peasants.

Throughout the book it is her unknown seeking of personal self expression as in this one instance, that involves the other characters. Her lack of experience and disregard of events other than as they touch herself. A true reflection, feels Mrs. Grant, on present-day youth. However she was quick to point out that the heroine was also true to pattern when she faced situations squarely and bravely.

Phyllis Bottome's great artistry in portraying the Bavarian winter scenes and the home atmosphere was greatly praised by Mrs. Grant and she ended her talk by reading certain of these passages to the members. Miss Edith Griffin, chairman of the section, introduced and thanked Mrs. Grant for her talk.

Approximately 60,000 persons, according to an estimate, will pass through the Bay Bridge terminal daily.

ALOHA, HELEN WARE

Hawaiian skies wept gently last Wednesday morning and trade winds which for a week preceding had been blustery—calmed to a gentle sigh of sorrow. Those of us who awoke early that morning to read the news of the passing of a friend understood, for Hawaii had also lost a friend.

May we pay tribute now to the memories of our own dear Helen. We shall remember always the days of joy spent with you here in the islands, your sweet laughter and contentment with each day of your visit. Your charm which won you so many friends here in Paradise. Your ability to hold those friends by kindness. If this could be a lei of words surely it should be made of tiare, the royal flower to a royal lady. Our love shall follow you on into eternity and where ere you are we say from our heart,
Aloha . . . from Hawaii.

AT CARMEL'S HOSTELRIES

Pine Inn reports that they had Angna Enters and her accompanist as their guests this week; also Mr. and Mrs. R. Denning of Atlanta, Ga.

Stopping over-night at La Playa Hotel recently was Louis Sobol, the columnist, who is traveling over the United States accompanied by Nathan Cantor and Nathan Kramer, all from New York. From the questions he asked while here it is thought that our town may have some publicity soon. Other guests at La Playa were Mrs. James Glaser of Glencoe, Ill., and her four children, also Mrs. Glaser's mother, Mrs. Ellen Chandler. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Trefts, who were married in San Francisco on Sunday spent three days at the hotel. Three people together were Mr. and Mrs. Fischer of Beverley Hills, accompanied by L. Rutstein of Antwerp, Belgium. E. D. Leshin, director at Universal Studios in Hollywood, was registered this week. Mr. and Mrs. A. Kendall of Virginia City, Nev., were honeymooning at La Playa. Mrs. Kendall is the daughter of Judge Souter of Reno. Other guests were Jay Gould, accompanied by Harold Strotz of Beverly Hills, Santa Barbara and New York. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sinton, San Francisco and their friends, Mrs. Joseph Ullman and Mrs. Walter Loewenthal of New York City. Mr. and Mrs. James Witkowski arrived on Wednesday on their annual visit here. Mr. Witkowski is a painter and is studying while here at the Carmel Art Institute.

Mrs. Hans Barkan of San Francisco is a guest at Forest Lodge.

Mrs. E. B. Bull of Vancouver, accompanied by four friends, is staying at Carmel Inn.

Honeymooning at Highlands Inn this week were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jamison of Martinez and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimmerman of Texas.

Exposition Expert Business Speaker

At its next meeting on Friday, Feb. 10, the Carmel Business Association will be entertained by a speaker from the Golden Gate Exposition personnel, Harold Davis of the lecture division, who will describe the highlights of the fair, and also show stereopticon slides in color.

In view of Davis' subject, and also the developments in color photography of the last few years, an interesting evening is in store. Members and friends of the Association are cordially invited. Meetings are held at 8 o'clock, at Pine Inn.

Women's League Meeting Today

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Mission Ranch Club the members of the board and directors of the Monterey County League of Women Voters will be hostesses at a card party and tea. This is a purely social affair and open to non-members. For one afternoon the members and their friends will forget the problems they are studying and the public issues they are discussing, to have a merry time.

Bridge will be the main game played, but for those who prefer something else there will be a special game room, and if games don't suit their fancy, there will be tea later in the afternoon. Those who have taken tables will be doubly welcomed if they will bring their own cards, score pads and table covers. Partners will be found for the "lone ranger" if there are any in this friendly organization.

Mrs. Carl Voss, former president of both the local and state Leagues, will pour at one of the tea tables, and Miss Lydia Weld, present president, at the other. The general committee on arrangements includes Miss Orre Haseltine, chairman, assisted by Miss Ruth Huntington, Miss Ardella Work, Mrs. Oliver Bardin, Mrs. Anthony Brazil, Mrs. J. G. Hooper, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mrs. Louise Grigsby and Miss Clara G. Hinds.

HEADLIGHTS IN FOG

Chief E Raymond Cato, of the California Highway Patrol, warns motorists to use their headlights in fog, as arrests otherwise will be in order.

NATIONAL EXCELLENCE

The Pine Cone this week received from the University of Illinois school of journalism word that the University had awarded The Pine Cone honor rating for general excellence in the 1939 national community newspaper contests.

The award was based on two consecutive issues printed during 1938.

Captain Robison Thanks Supporters In Paralysis Drive

Dear Friends and Supporters of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation: On behalf of the Carmel committee of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation I wish to publicly thank the press for its support; the entertainers who contributed their services at the President's Ball, those who purchased buttons, and those who contributed to the fund.

Yours respectfully,
SHELBURN ROBISON,
Chairman of the Committee.

Naval Reserve Here Is Likely

Following closely on general favorable reception to plans to establish a National Guard unit on the peninsula, suggestion of a Naval Reserve unit was brought up last week-end and has met with general approval.

Legion groups on the peninsula are receptive to the idea of both National Guard and Naval Reserve. Santa Cruz has had for some time an active Naval Reserve which carried out an extensive training program, both on shore and in summer cruises.

Angna Enters Gives Fine Kaleidoscope of Humanity

By ANNE GREENE
Last Monday evening the Carmel Music Society was again to be congratulated. This time on their presentation of Angna Enters, who played to a capacity house in the Sunset auditorium.
Miss Enters is definitely unique.

ANGNA ENTERS

Her art should not be categorized or pigeon-holed as dancing, acting, or mime alone, but is better described as a synthesis of all three, moved by her own particular creative ability.

In the 12 impersonations which comprised the program, she portrayed a veritable human kaleidoscope, each composition being a complete and comprehensive characterization of great range and variety.

In her opening number, "The American Ballet", she swept through the various stages of modern "ball-room dancing" with a sarcastic but nevertheless good-humored embodiment of American youth. "O—The Pain of It" was a beautifully executed but decidedly caustic burlesque which brought peals of laughter from the audience. In sharp contrast was the undercurrent of tragic futility in "Little Sally Water", showing her childhood, adolescence, and finally dissolute maturity. "Commencement" and "Field Day" were among those which portrayed the characteristic awkwardness of adolescence, imbued with an artless and delicate humor. It seemed incredible that the proud, cruel woman of the 16th Century, "Pavana", and the decadent "Boy Cardinal" could be the same as the charming young girl of "Pique Nique" or the pure plastic beauty of the Gothic Madonna.

Miss Enters' technique is flawless, and her artistry is such that she can subject her personality to that of the character she impersonates, establish moods, suggest certain environments, thus with imagination and intelligence convey all the sense and emotions of a connected narrative in each composition.

With only a few fragments such as a lace handkerchief, a pair of gloves, or a subtle gesture, she creates living people from nearly every walk of life.

Valley Venison Case Investigated

Repeated tips to the game warden this week resulted in the arrest of four men in the Rancho San Carlos region last Sunday and the recovery of the quarters of a recently killed fawn.

Four Filipinos, armed with a rifle, a pistol and a powerful flash light, were arrested by Game Warden Fred Post on the Robinson Canyon Road, and Joe Kane, 40, a Hawaiian, was later arrested in his cabin on the George Gordon Moore ranch.

Kane assertedly had one of the venison quarters at his cabin, the Filipinos the other three in their car.

As a result, the five were sentenced by Justice of the Peace Ray Baugh in Monterey to pay fines of $200 each or spend 100 days in the county jail, when they pleaded guilty.

Post testified the Filipinos refused to talk when arrested but said Kane had given them the meat. Kane said they killed the fawn and gave him one of the quarters, found in his cabin.

The Filipinos were Dome Gabison, 33; Jesus L. Bartolaba, 26; Simeon M. Anitohin, 24, and Mack Alamis, 36.

OPEN LETTER FROM TRUSTEES HARRISON MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Editor,
The Carmel Pine Cone.
Sir:

The Trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library were notified on Thursday, Jan. 26, that the request of the City of Carmel for a cash grant from the PWA toward the cost of building the proposed addition to the Library had been denied.

On September 27, 1938, the voters, wishing to take advantage of the offer of a 45% cash grant from the PWA on the original estimated cost of $8000 for the project, by a vote of three to one, authorized a bond issue of $3000, which, together with the above mentioned cash grant and Mrs. Kluegel's bequest of $1500, would have provided the amount required.

As this issuance of bonds was contingent on the receipt of the PWA grant, the bond election is invalidated and another election must be held.

At a joint meeting of the city council and the board of trustees of the Library, it was decided to seek a bond issue of $4500 from the people. This sum, together with the Kluegel Fund, would make $6000 available for the building of the addition and the $630 needed for the street improvement on two sides of the Library property.

In order to meet the lesser sum, it was decided to eliminate from the original plan four floor stacks to have cost $247 each which would have accommodated the books accumulating during the next eight years. The wall shelves of the added stack room will suffice for our immediate needs. Also an improved and enlarged charging desk in the lobby and some other features have been omitted to bring the whole cost of the building and the street work to $5839.95.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES,
Harrison Memorial Library.

Feb. 1, 1939.

investigate thoroughly the various sites now submitted and any others which may be brought forth and even to search out still other possibilities.

"El Paseo building was in general favored at first, and now it seems to have met some antagonism. It is only fair to the public to reopen the whole matter and go into it thoroughly in every detail."

Councilman Clara Kellogg added: "My first opinion regarding El Paseo building was that it was not exactly what we wanted, but it seemed the cheap and easy way to obtain a more permanent and adequate city hall."

Miss Kellogg admitted that the figure of $42,000 for El Paseo building and its remodeling caused her to think that the time for building a type of city hall more suitable to Carmel had really come. She also expressed doubt that the Jordan-Latham plans for a city hall would provide sufficiently large quarters, although the details call for a council chamber 24 by 35 feet, and main offices roughly 16 by 16 feet with twin jail cells, vault, etc.

In extolling the virtues of the site opposite the library on Sixth, Jordan pointed out that here a city hall "in harmony with the artistic ideas of Carmel would be in the vicinity of both the Library and Art Gallery."

Shand, in offering the site on Sixth opposite the Plaza, indicated the southern exposure and proximity to the post office, fire house and central district, and the possibility of closing that part of Sixth bordering the park and making a driveway through the block. He said existing structures on the Gates property would be removed as a condition of sale.

The Gould block likewise fronts on the Plaza and has a commanding position on Ocean avenue. The site has frequently been discussed as a good one for the post office.

Councilman Frederick R. Bechdolt, a sponsor of the El Paseo building bond election resolution, admitted, like Heron, that public opinion had not proved entirely in favor of El Paseo building and that it was "inadvisable to crowd this proposition on the public."

The business value of El Paseo building was re-stated by Councilman Everett Smith, who pointed out that rival propositions did not carry the same possibility of return from rentals and therefore did not necessarily balance. Councilman Hazel Watrous was absent.

Musical Art Club Plans Open Meeting

The Musical Art Club will present its first open meeting of the year next Tuesday evening at 8:15 at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. To this meeting friends of the members of the club will be welcome as guests.

The program, arranged by David Marrs, will include numbers by the Amphion quartet, and arias by Angela Demario, soprano. The Amphion quartet of Berkeley is composed of young professional musicians, members of the Amphion club, and is well known in musical circles of the San Francisco bay region.

Miss Demario, who is Mrs. Bernard F. Reilly in private life, is visiting in Carmel for the winter months. She has sung with the Philadelphia Opera Company, and is prima donna of the St. Michael and Atlantic City Grand Opera. She will be accompanied by Miss Esther Young of Salinas.

The program will be as follows: Piano Quartet in G minor (Mozart)—Amphion Quartet.

Aria: "Ah fors e lui" from La Traviata (Verdi)—Angela Demario. "Musetta's Waltz" from La Boheme (Puccini)—Angela Demario. Quartet in A Major (Brahms)—Amphion Quartet.

SUNSET MENUS

Monday—Vegetable beef soup, cottage cheese and peach salad, spaghetti with tomato sauce, spinach, ice cream.

Tuesday—Cream of tomato soup, molded vegetable salad, hamburgers, carrots, cream puffs.

Wednesday—Cream of asparagus soup, fruit salad, Spanish rice, diced beets, ice cream.

Anne Martin to Speak on Policy

One of Carmel's most distinguished residents will appear before the Woman's club next week at the Wednesday morning meeting of the current events section. Ann Martin, for many years "claimed" as a Carmelite, though she had been absent from the village for eight years before her return last July, will speak on "British Policy in European Affairs."

A brilliant writer and speaker, Miss Martin was associated with the feminist movement until "votes for women" became a reality; later became a devotee of the cause of peace and for the last dozen years has been a leader in the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom. In her earlier years she was a teacher of such subjects as the history of art, history and civics, in high schools and university. She has written many magazine articles on politics, economics and feminist subjects.

Her years away from here carried Miss Martin to Denver, Washington and New York, but Carmel has always been her "spiritual home." The Woman's club is gratified at being the organization to bring her once more in active touch with the public, and newer resident-club members are anticipating the opportunity to meet this distinguished member of their sex. Miss Martin's appearance before the current events section was arranged by Mrs. Harry S. Nye, section chairman.

Gale to Address Woman's Club

"Building a Personal Philosophy Through Literature", is the subject to be presented by Roy J. Gale at the general meeting of Carmel Woman's Club next Monday afternoon. The program will be presented in the assembly room at Pine Inn at 2:30, following the club's semi-annual luncheon at the Inn at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Gale is instructor of the sixth grade at Sunset school. During the past two years he has given evening talks at the school; last year's course having been on art appreciation. This year's series, held each Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Adult Education Department, is devoted to Literature and Life. Both have been well received, and the class attendance averages about 50. The synthesis of his material for this course is embodied in the talk which he will give for the Woman's Club.

Mr. Gale is a writer as well as teacher and lecturer. His first book, "Elements of Child Training," was published by Holt in 1926, and is still selling. Since being in Carmel he has had three plays published by School Activities Magazine, and his "Walt Whitman Speaks for Himself," first published in "Education", has had many reprints.

Reservations are being taken at Pine Inn for the luncheon which will precede the program. Mrs. S. M. Baldwin, chairman of hospitality, is in charge of arrangements, and will arrange tables for groups according to the advance reservations. Club members may bring guests to the luncheon and program.

Carmel Highlands Resident Passes Away

Mrs. Celestine Jeanne Flobert, 62, who recently came with her family from Los Gatos to live at Carmel Highlands, died last week-end. Funeral services were held Monday, conducted by Mrs. Floyd Parton.

Mrs. Flobert had been ill for only a short time before her death. She is survived by her husband, Antoin Jules Flobert; a daughter, Mrs. Juliette Johnson, of San Jose; two sons, John Flobert of Carmel and Victor Flobert, who lives in the East; and a sister, Mrs. Constance Dalemans, of Australia. She was born in Brussels, Belgium.

Wherein Marjory Lloyd Helps the Music Society Get Ready for Angna Enters' "Mime" Concert

There were two little girls sitting on the step as I approached the back entrance to Sunset school auditorium on Monday afternoon.

"There is something going on in there," they said, "and they won't let us go in to watch."

I wondered if they would let me in. I knocked on the door and waited. Presently Mrs. Herbert John Morse opened the door and said,

"Seeing you are the press, I think we will let you in." What mysteries were these, I wondered.

It was just the preparations being made by the Music Society for the Angna Enters concert that evening.

Mrs. James Parker and Mrs. Morse were arranging the lilies and genista you saw at the sides of the stage that night.

"Where did you get those lovely lilies?" I wanted to know.

"At the lily farm next to the nursery on the way to Point Lobos," replied Mrs. Parker. "There are 200 of them and they let me go right into the field and pick. Most of them had brown spots on them and were useless for selling so they just gave them to me. Nice of them, wasn't it?"

By this time the genista sprays were being placed in cans to form a frame for the lilies. "Look out," said Betty Morse, "that spray throws a shadow on the curtains, we'll have to alter it."

Slowly the branches and flowers took shape until the left of the stage looked like a little piece right out of a garden, and there were no shadows.

"Now for the other side," said Mrs. Parker, "it has to balance."

First of all the boy who was helping went outside and brought in some pieces of chalk rock. These were dropped in those huge square cans to form a bottom on which the flowers and branches could rest. Then the boy produced from backstage somewhere a few bits of broken shingle and they were to hold the big branches upright and keep them from leaning languorously toward the audience, or at least the then empty seats. Then Mrs. Parker put in a likely looking piece of genista. It didn't balance! Backstage again and this time the boy produced wire and with a little paring and a bit of grafting the branch balanced. So it went, until the right garden spot balanced the left.

"Last time," said Mrs. Parker, "we used 300 chrysanthemums and they just wouldn't balance and look right, so at 5 o'clock I had to start all over again, but it was finished in time for the show."

"And it was lovely!" chimed Mrs. Morse.

Now don't fancy these ladies were all alone in the auditorium with me and the boy. Ever and anon a man with a black beard dashed out from the wings, sometimes with a step-ladder and sometimes without. He hopped up the ladder, did something to a light and was off again only to reappear and beseech someone "to sit in the very last seats in the front rows and tell me if you can see a light or anything beyond the curtains." Sometimes we could and we gleefully directed this man until the curtains were just right and the lights just right and then and only then did Clay Otto, the man with the beard, feel satisfied.

Then he asked me to get up on the stage and be stand-in for Angna Enters. Maybe, if she'd seen me she would have had another humorous little number.

But... there was another man at the piano. While everyone else fixed flowers and lights he tuned. It was Benjamin Keith with a tuning fork between his teeth, listening, and adjusting so that even the accompaniments might be as perfect as the Music Society could make them.

Now in came the janitor and began to sweep up the almost immaculate stage. By this time Mrs. Morse was cutting out little cardboard circles to make holes for spots. Then they had to be pasted together.

Suddenly she looked at her watch and dashed out. I wandered into the auditorium to find Chick McCarthy who had come to see how the new curtains looked. As we sat talking, voices sounded back stage and suddenly a band of boys with musical instruments under their arms dashed into the hall.

"What's going to happen," one boy demanded of Mrs. Parker.

"A dancer's going to be here tonight," she replied.

"A dancer!" said the small boy, looking at the school stage wonderingly.

"No, you chump," said a complimentary friend, "one of those ladies that jumps around."

With a few hoots and hollers they disappeared into the foyer and onto the stage walked Mrs. Morse with Angna Enters. I hope she didn't hear the small boys... but then she wouldn't have minded, I'm sure.

I finally cornered Miss Enters helping Clay Otto select colored gelatins for the lights. She held up a piece to me and said:

"Smell it—it's just like the sea."

We talked for a while and I asked her if she would give me an interview. She smiled up at me sideways under her tiny green hat with a knowing little twist to her mouth and said, with a slight toss of her burnished black locks, "I know you newspaper people; I bet you have the interview written already and don't want me to say anything. I might spoil it. I'm awfully busy right now and I have to unpack the trunk. Come along and write what you like."

So along I went and watched while out came the key and up went the cover and there peeped at us some bright red moire and vivid black and white striped material, a bit of blue velvet and something that was all black and gold and rich looking.

"This trunk," she moaned. "It's more important than I am and I have such a time getting it on and off trains at the right times and in the right places. Today I had to sit in the day coach with it on the stream-liner as it wasn't allowed in the parlor car and I'm so worried it won't get to Salinas tonight in time to catch the 'Lark'. Someone has promised to take it over in a station-wagon." Then I knew what Lee Crowe had been up to earlier when he dashed in for a moment and demanded, "Who do you know who owns a station-wagon?"

The trunk was deserted and the getting of a maid for the evening was discussed. Mrs. Parker volunteered her cook "who would love to help you change your costumes"; and that point was settled.

Next came the lights and there followed a discussion as to how they should be run.

"No frosts," demanded Miss Enters, "I don't like them!" I hope she was well on her way to Los Angeles and the sunny south (so they say) before our little cold wave hit Carmel that night. But then you didn't mean that sort of a frost, did you, Miss Enters?

It was getting pretty late by this time and so I left Miss Enters alone in the darkened auditorium, talking in her clear clipped voice to Clay Otto at the control board.

I went out into the fast darkening evening and there were no longer two little girls waiting on the step to find out what was going on inside. But I knew. It was the members of the board of the Music Society in there, doing everything in their power to see that Miss Enters should have what she wanted, and Miss Enters thinking I had an interview all previously written. Which I hadn't!

But I wasn't idle all that time I would have you know; I made 46 trips across the stage with a pitcher of water for the lilies, pasted all the holes for spots together. I did! And as to the advice I gave Clay Otto, it was helpful, wasn't it, Clay?

LIBRARY IMPROVEMENT

It is no easy matter to have to revise plans, eliminate items least imperative and rearrange for financing. That is what the trustees of our Library have had to do now that PWA has refused their application for a grant of 45 per cent aid for increasing facilities in an already crowded space.

Some months ago Carmel voted to bond itself up to $3000 which, together with Mrs. Belle Kluege's bequest of $1500, would be our share in paying for the proposed addition. PWA was to make up the difference for a total expenditure of approximately $8000, which sum the trustees of the Library and the City Council deemed proper to spend for much-needed increased facilities.

In their awareness of the situation as it now stands, the Library trustees met several days ago with the City Council and it was concluded to go ahead with the major part of the project, eliminating certain equipment of the stackroom, the improving and enlarging of the charging desk in the lobby and other features provided for in the original plan. By so doing the cost of the project will be reduced from $8000 to $5839.95. This reduced amount will take care of the immediate needs of the Library. The refusal of the grant by PWA invalidates the bond issue of $3000, approved by the voters on September 27, 1938, and it will be necessary to go to the voters seeking their approval of an issue of $4500, or an increase of $1500 over the $3000 originally approved. As regards the imperative need for increased Library facilities we quote from the editorial columns of the Pine Cone, issue of September 23, 1938:

"Why your library needs an addition to its building and increased shelf space is so that its facilities may be enlarged for your benefit and for all of the many who make use of the Library.

Carmel Library is something to be proud of—probably no community of this size anywhere in the United States has a library more used per capita than is yours. Its reference works, which are often consulted both by students and people of literary tastes, form a remarkable collection. Here are the main indisputable features of the situation requiring additional space:

2600 books are at present in the basement because of lack of space on library shelves.

3000 more books are on library shelves than can be handled with efficiency.

1000 more books are available to the library from the County Library, but have not been accepted, due to lack of shelving space.

1000 books are added annually by gift and purchase."

When the time comes to go to the polls we are confident that the voters will vote "Yes".

The vote in favor of the $3000 bond issue was three to one.

PRAISE WE CAN'T DENY

Directors may come and directors may go, but what the Carmel public and the Carmel actors want continues to be Charles "Chick" McCarthy. The former Carnegie Tech football quarterback who went from the gridiron to the stage, has proved a valuable acquisition to this community which has had such directors to boast of as Maurice Browne and Galt Bell. McCarthy, as director of "Kind Lady" for the Carmel Players, scored one more hit with his selection and training of an excellent cast. Throughout, there was to be sensed the finished touch of the one and only "Chick" McCarthy.

SAN MARCOS

*A chorus of candles about me,
 A wind of stars in my hair,
 A door swinging open to night
 To sky and smooth white air.*

*A strange goodbye in the starlight,
 Shadows move over the flowers,
 Will I remember enchantment
 That passes so soon with the hours?*

*Chaparral white in the moonlight,
 Chaparral green on the hill,
 I bury my face in the coolness
 Of beauty blossoming still.*

—MARGARET LEWIS ALBANESE.

"ESCAPES"

*Among the dusty weeds they stand,
 A roadside jewel, a golden band
 Along the dock and ragweed thrown,
 Each blossom fresh, and jolly blown.*

*Across the road, white pickets show
 The exiles' heads are thicker bent,
 To catch a rose or lily scent.*

*These pretty gamins cannot share
 The grave-eyed gardener's skill and care;
 That world of peace and rich perfume,
 The soft, moist earth, and myriad bloom.*

*No quiet lady, bending down,
 Pauses, to touch a silken crown,
 Straighten a stalk, a withered leaf,
 Bind stragglers loosely in a sheaf.*

*Banished! Yet God's rain falls at their feet,
 And twilight dews are cool and sweet.
 Theirs the glad wonder of the sky,
 And children's laughter rippling by.*

—CHARLES BALLARD.

—From Marzilian . . .

GREETING

*Over the wave-patterned sea-floor
 Over the long sun-burnt ridge of the world
 I bid the winds seek you
 I bid them cry to you
 Night and morning
 A name you loved once;
 I bid them bring to you
 Reed songs, and songs of the small birds—and sleep.*

—ELLA YOUNG.

ARROWS

*You took little pieces of the bitter night of me;
 Heavy and hard and quite to your purpose . . .
 You the arrow-maker; out of the night of me
 Splitting sharp shafts to murder my dreams of you.*

WHICH CITY HALL

Last week the plan for making a City Hall out of El Paseo building had only one competitor. Now, at last Wednesday's council meeting, a whole raft of proposals for city halls appeared, including last week's competitor, backed up by facts, figures and options which changed the whole setup and plans of the city council.

It is pleasant to note that all the members of the council are endeavoring to ascertain just which proposal would be most favorable to the public, none of them appearing to favor one idea over the other. There is none of this "cramming it down the people's throat" idea.

When Byington Ford first presented his proposal to the council that El Paseo building be purchased as a city hall, there were no other plans in sight, and while there was no wild enthusiasm for the idea, many people seemed to agree that the building would be all right, at least we could see for ourselves what we were being sold. People could view the building and realize it to be a handsome structure on valuable property, and besides, Ford's price was certainly reasonable. It was not until the price for remodeling the building, with the idea in mind of keeping as many rentable store sites as possible, began climbing as high as $42,000, that citizens began wondering if Carmel could not do better by buying its own site and building a city hall thereon.

The Council can't answer this question, nor can we or any other individual. The task of finding out what really would be best for Carmel for all time is difficult; also what the people really want must be borne in mind, as any of these propositions must be put up to the voters before anything can be done.

With all this in mind, the council has appointed a group of disinterested citizens to work with them in carefully examining all the plans in an endeavor to determine which would be the best all 'round. If there is any better way to go about the complicated job, we have yet to hear of it. An election now is out of the question; one proposition would kill the other.

In the end the committee may come back to the El Paseo building or one of the newer plans might be favored. Most of these plans call for amounts of money ranging from 30,000 to $40,000, which is a lot of money these days, so that every possibility should be thoroughly investigated before anything concrete is done.

The committee has been limited to two weeks in which to do their work because some of the options on land offered for the city hall are comparatively short. However, if that is not sufficient time in which to study every angle, it would be wise to extend it. We are sure that any one of the property owners would be glad to extend their options.

IT'S NOT SO

In spite of statements to the contrary, Carmel is NOT going to hire another policeman, NOR is Commissioner Bechdolt even considering such a move. Ask him. In further attempts to rattle the public and destroy police morale, a story has been circulated that another policeman is to be hired in Nixon's place and at the same time shift the night watchman's job from control of the merchants who pay his salary to the city payroll. It's utter rot.

HIGH SCHOOL SITES

It will be remembered that one of our chief grievances against the trustees of the Monterey Union High School District was that they purchased a large tract of expensive land without consulting the wishes of the people. Surely we won't be faced with the same thing in our newly formed district. There are two announced sites for the new school under discussion, the board holding options on Paradise Park and Hatton Fields, and there is the possibility of a third. A great deal has been said about the first sites. Frank Shea and Victor Graham, guided by the advice of a state employee, are holding out for Paradise Park, while the other trustee, Mrs. Doris Watson, is strongly favoring Hatton Fields, believing it to be the popular choice. The third site, although not disclosed, is in existence.

Because this school situation is without parallel in the history of the state, there is very little definite legal precedent on which to go, and our district attorney is having a very difficult time, as are the authorities in Sacramento. However, on reading the school code we find that there is a provision that at any time over such an important item as selection of school sites, a meeting of the electorate must be held if a petition signed by 50 per cent of the heads of families in the district is presented to the school board. At this general meeting all the sites may be put to a vote and the board must follow the mandate. This would seem a good, democratic way of doing things, our board not being in accord. Nothing would be lost by such a move and if as we firmly believe a good majority of the district would vote for some site other than Paradise Park, all the clouds would be cleared away.

Tortilla Flat Case to Salinas

Charged with assault with a deadly weapon, Jose Eturna, 48, who assertedly stabbed Andrew Gomez, widely known as "Redwing", in the shack they shared in Carmel's Tortilla Flat, was bound over to the superior court of Monterey county last Saturday.

Eturna was returned to the county jail in default of $1000 bail, set by Justice of the Peace Ray Baugh.

Gomez and Eturna disagreed regarding the instrument with which Gomez was stabbed and how the stabbing occurred. Gomez said that Eturna attacked him. The defendant claimed he "might have stabbed him with a screwdriver." Gomez was hazy regarding what weapon might have been used.

The brawl in the northeast part of Carmel occurred on the night of Jan. 19.

This has been a full week what with the Carmel Players occupying the Filmarte for four evenings with "Kind Lady," the various President's Birthday Balls Saturday night, and the Music Society presentation of Angna Enters on Monday evening at Sunset Auditorium. Visitors continue to arrive day by day, both for Carmel itself and the various entertainments it has to offer. We hope they will not be discouraged by the weather which after assuring us that spring was really here, has this week made us shiver in cold rains and decked the hills and upper valley with a snowy mantle. Carmelites have been getting out their heaviest clothes, bundling up and driving to Jamesburg where they have been actually "in the snow." Certain of them have even brought snow to Carmel and having once got it here pelted their all unsuspecting friends with snowballs. These last were more of a surprise than they expected. It is startling to be pelted at any time, but when snow sprinkles one, snow to which one had hoped they had said goodbye in the blizzardy East years ago, it is a distinct shock.

Miss Agnes Williston has a decidedly interesting scrapbook containing a collection of epitaphs taken from old and historic tombstones of the New England states. The book was begun by Miss Williston's mother many years ago and has been added to considerably by Miss Williston herself. R. J. Gale, of the Sunset school staff, made extensive use of the collection when preparing a recent talk on the poetry of Edgar Lee Masters whose "Spoon River Anthology" takes its themes from such old epitaphs in a country cemetery.

Shim Kuster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Kuster, who is at present at La Loma Feliz school in Santa Barbara, which is run by Dr. Ina Richter, is progressing favorably and has gained five pounds. Although Shim is still in bed, he is able to keep up with his work at this interesting school. He has been ill for several months, ever since over-exertion laid him low.

Mrs. Bardarson was assisted in receiving the many guests who called to congratulate Mrs. Burton by Mrs. Edna Lockwood and Miss Gale Guthrie, while Mrs. James Guthrie and Miss Frances Clark presided at either end of the tea table. Members of Mrs. Burton's family who were in Carmel for the occasion were her daughter, Mrs. Austin White, her son, Monte Huff of Hollywood; her niece, Miss Helen Huff; and her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrans Sweet of San Francisco. Over 70 people called to greet Mrs. Burton, one of Carmel's most beloved persons, on this occasion.

Announced last Friday in San Francisco by Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Dempsey, the parents of Miss Dorothea Dempsey, was her engagement to Thomas Nash Hooper of Carmel, son of Mrs. Joseph G. EYES

*Be it blue, brown, black or grey
There is nothing that tells the truth
Or mirrors the soul in a perfect way,
Like the trusting eyes of youth.*

*The fearless eyes of a warrior bold,
The eyes with a look "beyond"—
The sad, sad eyes with a tale untold;
The kind eyes of a mother fond.*

*The shy grey eyes of a maiden fair,
The laughing eyes of a boy,
The big blue eyes, and golden hair
Of the babe, as he plays with a toy.*

*The piercing eyes of a lawyer keen
As he searches your very soul:
The crafty eyes of the man so mean
Who always takes his toll.*

*Bright eyes, sad eyes, eyes of every clime
Tell the same tale of love and yet—
Are changeful as the sands of time,
Until in sleep they're fast and set.*

—ELIZA V. COCKBURN.

William Rudolf Bramer arrived at the Community Hospital on Saturday evening just a little late for dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Bramer of Carmel. The time of his greeting the world was 8:30. His grandparents were immediately sent the news of his arrival, which had to travel long distances as one message went to Mrs. Minna Bramer in the Free City of Danzig, on the Baltic Sea, and the other to Silas Perkins in Portland, Ore.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knox were down from Berkeley last week-end to see the Carmel Players' presentation of "Kind Lady." Dr. and Mrs. Knox have so far come to Carmel for all the plays since they left last fall. Dr. Knox at the time of his departure was a director of the drama group. They were accompanied on this trip by their two children.

Rex McBride, who has been spending several months in Carmel left this week for his ranch near Eureka. Mrs. McBride and her three sons will remain in Carmel for an indefinite time until her son, Jon, who is a patient at the Community hospital, is well enough to make the trip home.

Miss Kathrine Craven, who is spending some time in Carmel as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Louis Ralston, is at present in San Francisco for a few days. Miss Craven is studying at the Carmel Art Institute while here.

The Del Monte polo clubhouse is the scene for numerous tennis and badminton activities at present, not to speak of the games and pleasant chats about the fireside. Under the direction of Leo Kohler special evening entertainments are planned besides expert coaching and advice. The tennis court is the only indoor one in this part of the country and the wooden floor is an exciting new experience.

The R. K. O.-Pathe sportologue being made on the Pebble Beach golf course is attracting interest on the peninsula as it has brought here several sterling golfers who include Dick Metz, Jimmy Thompson, Ed Dudley and Horton Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allen of Seattle, Wash., have taken the Hancock house on Casanova street for the length of their stay in Carmel.

Mary Pickford and her husband, Buddy Rogers, were visitors on the peninsula last Sunday. Mr. Rogers was playing polo at Del Monte.

Miss Elizabeth McClung White is once more in Carmel after a vacation of several weeks.

Mrs. Marguerite Kramm of Berkeley was the guest last week of Miss Glenna Peck of Carmel.

The Monterey County League of Women Voters are holding a luncheon meeting at 11:45 next Thursday at Pine Inn when the speaker will be Mrs. Paul Elie who will talk on "Proposed California Legislation as It Touches the League Program." Mrs. Elie is a former president of the California League of Women Voters and has been mentioned for important posts under the Olson regime. She understands as few women do, how California laws are made and how and if enforced. The subject of Mrs. Elie's talk is of particular interest due to the change in the administration.

The Carmel Missionary Society has been invited by the Methodist ladies of Pacific Grove to be their guests at a Fellowship tea on Tuesday at 2:30 at the Methodist Church in Pacific Grove. Those who plan to attend are asked to phone Mrs. Nixon, Carmel 52-W, not later than Sunday and also state whether there will be extra room in their cars or if they have no means of transportation.

Carmel friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Vaughn, who spent some time here two years ago when he was the landscape artist at Point Lobos, will be glad to know that they are well and with their two daughters, Zibette and Nancy, living on a farm in Maine. PADEREWSKI, MARIE TEMPEST IN FILMARTE SCREEN OFFERING

The long awaited first and only screen appearance of the world's greatest pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, is announced for Carmel by Richard Bare of the Filmarte theater opening Tuesday, Feb. 14.

The great maestro will be seen and heard in the Lothar Mendes production, "Moonlight Sonata", in which the supporting cast includes Marie Tempest, Charles Farrell, and Barbara Greene.

Paderewski, who is in his seventies, was intrigued by the mechanics of the motion picture, and told producer Mendes that he would consider an appearance in the films provided a suitable story could be found. Hans Remeau, the scenario writer, provided Mr. Mendes with an outline for "Moonlight Sonata," and this was handed to Paderewski to read. He immediately expressed his willingness to appear in the film.

The "Moonlight Sonata," which was produced in London in the English language, has met with phenomenal success during its American engagements. It holds such long records as 18 weeks at the Esquire Theater in Hollywood, and 22 weeks at the Fine Arts Theater in Boston. Manager Bare states, however, that it will be booked at the Filmarte for a very limited engagement due to the shortage of available playing time in California theaters.

Paderewski, in addition to playing a dramatic role important to the well constructed story, plays four immortal classics, namely, Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6, Polonaise in A Flat Major, his own Minuet in G Major, and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

The New York American says of Paderewski's debut: "Not because it is a beautifully filmed and skillfully directed production, but because it records the piano playing of the world's greatest pianist, Paderewski, is what makes "Moonlight Sonata" a vital human document... offers you celestial music, the like of which you'll never hear this side of heaven."

"Moonlight Sonata" will be shown exclusively at the Filmarte in this area, and during the engagement special loge seats may be reserved in advance.

Music Broadcast by U. C. Students, Feb. 7

As one broadcast of a series being given over Columbia Broadcasting stations, a program of music composed by San Francisco Bay district musicians will be given at 12 o'clock, noon, on Feb. 7. The National League of composers is sponsoring the series and from San Francisco the program will be under the direction of Prof. Albert I. Elkus. The performance of the works will be by the students and members of the University of California department of music.

The program will include: First Movement String Quartet, by William Denny; two songs, by John St. Edmunds; three children's pieces, by Ray Green; Eclogue No. 1 for flute and string quartet, by Domenico Brescia; Andante for strings, Henry Cowell; and third movement string quartet No. 2 in A, Charles Cushing.

Denny, Green and Cushing, as students, were awarded the George Ladd Fellowship of the University of California, the Prix de Paris. St. Edmunds is a senior student on the campus.

Those who will assist in the broadcast production are Jean Overman, Modesto, flute; Daniel Bonsack, Oakland, and Bernice Turner, Berkeley, violins; Margaret Hagerty, Berkeley, cello; William Denny, lecturer in music, viola; Ray Green, piano; and George Prall, Los Angeles, graduate of 1934, tenor.

Concerts on the series from New York, Detroit and other centers will be rendered by professionals; the University program will be the only one by non-professionals. The program may be heard from KSFO, San Francisco, KNX, Los Angeles, and other Columbia stations throughout the state.

COUNTY HEALTH REPORT

Syphilis topped the new cases of communicable diseases reported to the county health officer last week. Seven cases of syphilis were recorded, three of gonorrhea, six of chickenpox and mumps, two of whooping cough and one each of tuberculosis and measles.

Bach Society Plans Ruth Finley Concert

Ruth Finley, brilliant American pianist, will be heard at Hotel Del Monte on Sunday, Feb. 12, at 8:30 o'clock. The recital will be under the auspices of the Bach Society of Central California.

Miss Finley's playing has brought the highest praise from the press as well as fellow artists.

Tickets may be secured either at Abinante's Music Store or at Lial's Music Shop in Monterey. Students will be admitted for half price.

The program will be announced later.

Anna Neagle on Filmarte Screen

Anna Neagle, who was such a sensation in "Victoria the Great," completely reverses her role in her newest picture, "Look Out for Love," which makes its debut at the Filmarte this evening. With the versatility that distinguishes her, she steps with utter smoothness from the part of an empress to the role of a street gamine and chorus girl. It is difficult to imagine another actress who could make this transition.

Tullio Carminati, co-starred with Anna Neagle, is seen as a debonair diplomat and self-appointed sponsor for a Soho orphan girl—Anna Neagle—who later, through his help, becomes a famous cabaret star. Robert Douglas, appearing in his important screen role, enacts the third party in this true to life story, while Horace Hodges appears as a kindly old priest who befriends Anna Neagle.

In addition to the strong story and dramatic acting of Anna Neagle, there are many gay scenes with a luxurious night club as their background; and it is amid a spectacular night club setting that Anna Neagle sings and dances in her own inimitable way to haunting melodies.

"Look Out for Love" will run until Sunday, with matinees Saturday and Sunday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stonery last week-end were Mr. Stonery's cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Blackner, and their three sons. The Blackners' home is now in Salt Lake City, where they have recently returned from three years spent in the Andes in Argentina, where Mr. Blackner was connected with the mining industry.

Miss Sally Fry returned to her Carmel home on Tuesday after spending two weeks in Santa Rosa visiting relatives.

Miss Dorothy Love is once more in Carmel after visiting her brother and his family at the Presidio of San Francisco and other relatives in the city.

Railroaders Reading About Louis Slevin

Railroad Magazine currently publishes the following notes from and about Louis Slevin, who, besides being an ardent photographer, has also the study of insects for a hobby:

Back in 1898 I started out with a little camera to "shoot" every car, every locomotive and every ship in sight. I claim to be one of the first to do that on a big scale. Anybody else claim that distinction?—L. S. Slevin, Box F, Carmel, Calif.

Elsa Maxwell to be in Charge of "Party" at Lodge, February 12th

Society, spelled with a capital "S" and pronounced with an emphasis known best in Newport and New York, may have died, but Elsa Maxwell rose quickly from its ashes and today is the best known sponsor for society at large. No ghost, Elsa Maxwell throws her solid bulk behind her job, as purveyor of society, "party-ing" you whether you be a Newport or Carmel resident.

On Sunday evening, Feb. 12, Elsa Maxwell will throw what promises to be the "biggest" party ever to occur in these parts. She will welcome you to dinner at Del Monte Lodge, followed by a "lecture" and, at 9 o'clock, dancing.

Miss Maxwell is sponsored by Kit Whitman, of Carmel, who announces that tickets are on sale at Hotel Del Monte, Carmel Art Institute, Stanford's drug store and Lial's Music Shop in Monterey. For the lecture and dance at 9, the price is $3, for the dinner preceding the lecture, $2 additional.

The subject of Miss Maxwell's talk will be "Anything at All," an all-embracing subject which Miss Maxwell is bound to make lively. Miss Maxwell is now in San Francisco giving informal lectures to large audiences. Her rare humor and approach to Society, spelled with the big "S", is her charm, aside from her ability to make every party a huge success, also spelled with the capital letter.

This will not be Miss Maxwell's first visit to Carmel, but when she was here previously, several years ago, it was as guest of the Sidney Fishes.

Calley Is Active In Ceramics Study

Ernest Calley is using his leave of absence as shop instructor at Sunset school to good advantage. He was pictured in a recent issue of the San Jose Mercury-Herald as taking an active part in the college ceramics class. San Jose offers a comprehensive course in ceramics and the knowledge acquired by Calley should be of value to Sunset pupils when he resumes instruction.

Leaders of Girl Scouts at Dinner

Members of the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Council were hostesses at dinner to leaders and assistant leaders of Girl Scout troops and Brownie packs, including those of Carmel's Troop 3 and Troop 1, at the Pacific Grove Girl Scout house last Friday evening.

Among the plans for various troops heard at the meeting were those of Carmel Troop 3, reported by Mrs. Ernest Morehouse, leader, who told of the Brownie fly-up set for Feb. 10 when the entire group with one exception will be invested as Girl Scouts.

Miss Edith M. Tweedy, acting temporarily as leader of Carmel Troop 1, reported on the troop having furnished a club room and selected as a project, dramatics with the use of puppets.

Plans are under way for the summer camp which will be open for at least five weeks, or one week more, if the demand is sufficient. Periods of one week for groups of 12 to 16 are being arranged and it is hoped to have leaders attend with their entire troops. The cost will be $5 per week and those wishing to stay for a second week may do so.

The regional conference is scheduled for Berkeley on March 2, 3 and 4, and directors and leaders are urged to attend, at least for one day.

Among those who attended the meeting were Mesdames Peter Ferrante, Herbert John Morse, Webster Street, Ernest Morehouse, Talbert Josselyn, and Miss Edith M. Tweedy.

Legion to be Asked to Fix Honor Scroll

The city council acted finally on the suggestion of Randal Cockburn and the Carmel Pine Cone that "something be done about the Carmel scroll of honor" bearing the names of those who were in service during the war from this area.

The council decided to ask the Carmel post of the American Legion to put the scroll in permanent form. It now has an excellent wood frame, but the list of names is on a piece of fiber board. It hangs in the council chamber.

Other Bible citations will include: "Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them. And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did. For unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed" (Acts 8: 5, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The spiritual reality is the scientific fact of all things. The spiritual fact, repeated in the action of man and the whole universe, is harmonious and is the ideal of Truth. Spiritual facts are not inverted; the opposite discord, which bears no resemblance to spirituality, is not real" (p. 207).

Players, McCarthy Score In 'Kind Lady' Production

By FRANCIS L. LLOYD

All the town is talking about "Kind Lady," which Charles McCarthy and the Carmel Players gave us last week, both as a relief to the run of comedy which the Players staged last summer and to the usual run of amateur theatricals.

"Kind Lady" answered two questions very satisfactorily—that the Players need Chick McCarthy and that the Players can perform plays other than Broadway hit comedies with complete success.

The credit goes in large measure to Marion Todd and Gordon Knoles, who bore the brunt of "Kind Lady," and it also goes to the well-chosen cast of Wilma Bott, Harry Hedger, Ted Warren, Georgeanna Good, Sam Colburn, Ross Miller, Jessie Joan Brown, Dick Carter, Mollie Darling, Patty Lou Elliott and Thelma Miller.

The only flaw was a first night that got away to a poor start, and it is too bad that those who saw the play that night did not see it one of the other three nights. Things have to go wrong sometime, and on Thursday night, somehow, everything that went wrong with "Kind Lady" did so and the entire crew got it off their combined chests.

Marion Todd, with a well modulated, thoroughly trained character role, as "Mary Herries," gave us one of her rare performances and Gordon Knoles never failed to live entirely the villainous, scheming roles of "Henry Abbott," every line of his face, in changing inflexion, indicating the trend of his thought and motive.

Together they gave a thoroughly professional performance, and the combined cast gave them such complete support that the show harked back to the success of Herbert Heron's "Hamlet" at the Forest Theater in 1926, one of the really outstanding amateur productions that Carmel has ever seen.

It is difficult to dissect so complete a working team as McCarthy and gang proved to be. There was the old McCarthy touch, so evident that the Players are bound to keep the director in Carmel—or give up the ghost. In the selection of the cast alone, McCarthy did his usually outstanding job.

Four supporting roles were especially fine, those of Ross C. Miller, as a dapper French art agent, Harry Hedger and Wilma Bott, as morose members of Abbott's criminal entourage, and Sam Colburn, as the banker who is a key in the solution.

Molly Darling showed trouper resourcefulness in saving a situation on Thursday evening, and was good as the maid; Jessie Joan Brown and Dick Carter, as the young couple, Mary Herries' niece and her American bond-salesman husband.

Patty Lou Elliott, as the morose daughter of the morose couple, handled a part which was mostly miming with adroitness.

Thelma Miller gave a sprightly society woman part and Ted Warren, as the gang's doctor, completely disguised in his make-up, did exceedingly well with his bit.

Bardarson Serves on National Board

Otto W. Bardarson, Sunset principal, recently received notice of his appointment to serve on the National Education Association advisory committee on tax education. Bardarson is at present chairman of a state council committee of the California Teachers Association undertaking a study of financing public education in the state of California.

JANUARY PERMIT

One permit for a new building was issued during the month of January for the city of Carmel. It went to C. A. Watson for a brick garage and auto repair shop at Mission and Fourth. Miles Bain is the contractor. Estimated cost was set at $4700.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO WORK ON CITY HALL

den Whitman.

All those on this list who have been contacted have indicated that they are very willing to donate their time.

The first meeting will be held in the council chambers next Wednesday at 3 p. m.

The committee will also be instructed to search for additional possible sites. Real estate agents, newspapermen and others will be called in for consultation.

It is recalled that in 1934, when the question of building a city hall previously was raised, Peter Mawdsley submitted 11 different offers, including those presented by Arthur Shand this week. Mawdsley is now disqualified to submit offers because of his official position as city auditor.

The taxes Californians pay have nearly doubled since 1933.

G-Man Leader to Speak Tuesday

Guests of the Carmel American Legion Auxiliary will have the opportunity of hearing N. J. L. Pieper, chief of the San Francisco field division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a talk at the Legion Club on Tuesday evening.

Pieper, once one of Edgar Hoover's right-hand men in Washington, although only 30 years of age, has achieved a high place in F. B. I. work and has both a forceful personality and a pleasing appearance.

His rise to a position of importance under Hoover was in line with Hoover's avowed policy of advancing able men just as quickly as possible to key places in the F. B. I. structure.

Raymond Brown, recently appointed captain of the Sons of the Legion for this district, Joe Martin, adjutant, and Jimmy Misket, all Sons of the Legion, will act as ushers. Mrs. M. J. Peterson announced this week.
